Congressman Urges Dry Law Be Repealed

Syracuse, N. Y., July 28.—(AP.)—Representative Clarence E. Hancock of Syracuse, in an address here today, made his first public announcement of a stand for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Through abolishment of the Eighteenth Amendment," he said, "I hope to see the end of the wave of crime and corruption and other evils that have come with prohibition. Then a man will be able to buy wholesome drinks instead of poison—liquor that is made by honest men instead of by crooks."
